Boy Abandoned Here--Kidnapped?

SHERIFF SEEKS INFORMATION IN BAFFLING CASE

Woman Left Boy in Care of Woman in September.

A black eyed, black haired, exceptionally bright boy of about four years has been abandoned in Dixon, left with complete strangers, with hardly clothes enough to cover the little boy, sick and in strange surroundings. The Sheriff's office is making a search in an effort to locate the heartless mother. Although sick and among strangers, the little lad, who knows no other name than that of "Jack," is receiving the tender care of friends, who have taken him into their home. Whether the child has been abandoned by a heartless young mother, or has been kidnapped, is the question the Sheriff's office is trying to determine.

Mrs. Grace Heinze, 202 Cropsey avenue, chambermaid at the Nachusa Tavern, has been entrusted with the care of the child. Acting on information furnished by The Evening Telegraph, Deputy Sheriff Mac Lichteiter and a representative of The Telegraph called upon Mrs. Heinze this morning and started the investigation. She told a very clear story of a strange woman coming to the hotel shortly after Labor Day with the child. The boy was an interesting little chap and won the admiration of all of the hotel employees with whom he came in contact.

Seek "Mrs. Thompson."
Examination of the hotel register disclosed the fact that the woman registered as Mrs. J. R. Thompson of Chicago and claimed to be a saleslady for a wholesale candy company. She carried very little baggage, a traveling bag and a small suit case for the child. She returned to the Tavern about two weeks ago and at that time left the boy here. She confided to Mrs. Grace Heinze, chambermaid at the hotel, that she had been married and that her husband had no objection to the child, but had requested that she quit the road and take care of the boy. She explained that she did not care to abide by this request and asked Mrs. Heinze if she would care for the boy.

The woman had stopped at the hotel several times this fall, according to Mrs. Heinze, and had confided some of her domestic affairs. She did not speak in endearing terms of her first husband, but upon her first visits talked considerably of another man with whom she had been going and who had asked her to marry him. Mrs. Heinze about three weeks ago, was stopped by the woman and informed that she had been married.

Promised to Pay.
Mrs. Thompson then stated that she had intended to make Dixon her headquarters, stopping here over Sunday each week and was trying to find a place where she could leave her boy. She had been unsuccessful in finding a suitable home for the child, according to her story, and finally prevailed on Mrs. Heinze to keep the little fellow. She promised to pay for the board and keep of the boy and to provide for his necessities. The child was suffering with a severe cold at the time and was ill.

Mrs. Heinze took the little fellow to her home and nursed him, giving him every care possible. She also provided warm clothes for the child, but heard nothing from the supposed mother. About two weeks ago a long distance telephone message was received. A woman inquired as to the condition of Jack's health and said that she would forward money for his board and also for clothes which he needed badly. Last Sunday evening another long distance telephone message was received by Mrs. Heinze. The woman again inquired as to the child's health and said that she would immediately send money for his board and an amount for medical services should be required them, but despite these promises no remuneration has been received.

Before leaving the child here two weeks ago, Mrs. Thompson had said that she was going to Peoria and would stop at the Jefferson hotel. Since that time her location has not been known. The boy is sure only the name of Brenard, Thompson and Moore, at different times.

The woman is described as being stout with light hair, fine features, stylishly dressed and gave her age as 35 years. She imparted the information that she had formerly resided in Chicago and had a sister living there. She told Mrs. Heinze that the boy's clothing was at the sister's home and

EXPECT EMBLEM FOR MOTOR CLUB TO ARRIVE SOON

Local Organization is Extended to Lee, Ogle Counties.

President Frank Schoenholtz of the Rock River Motor Club stated that word had been received that the emblems would arrive shortly. This delay has been caused by the Rock River Motor Club waiting for the national emblem to be decided upon so that their emblem would carry the national insignia, eliminating any chances of forcing members to purchase new emblems next season.

Strong Club Expected.
Through the activities of the Executive Board of the Motor Club arrangements have been made with the Rock River Motor Club territory, not only Lee county, but Whiteside and Ogle. In the three counties there are 24,200 automobiles. At the present time the membership of the Rock River Motor Club is 248. As soon as the emblems are delivered, Divisional Field Secretary A. P. Hamill will make his headquarters at Dixon, devoting his entire time to the building up of this organization. As soon as the emblems arrive a general membership meeting will be called to distribute them and to lay plans for the coming year.

The two danger signals for Hess's Corners are expected the first of the week, according to the confirmation of the order received by the Secretary. These will be placed in the proper positions by the State Highway Department.

Seek Motive for Blast at Bristow, Oklahoma Hostelry

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Bristow, Okla., Oct. 14.—Officials were trying to establish a motive today for the dynamiting of the Illinois Hotel here last night which caused the death of Nick Redwin, an oil field worker, and the injury of a dozen other persons.

Those injured most seriously were Florence Jones and H. E. Ferrell. A large charge of dynamite was exploded under the rear of the hotel, a small frame structure, about midnight. The building was leveled. Persons who rushed to the scene immediately extricated the injured from the wreckage. The fact that flames did not break out after the blast probably saved from death several of those caught in the debris. Redwin was dead when rescuers reached him.

CHARGES DELIBERATE ATTEMPT TO DEFEAT NEW CONSTITUTION

Chairman Says Words "In Year of Our Lord" Are In.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Charging that a deliberate attempt is being made to prejudice the people against the proposed new constitution before they had an opportunity to study it, Henry I. Green of Urbana, chairman of the committee on submission, today replied to a statement given to the press yesterday by Henry Hooker Van Meter, a Bible League organizer. The Van Meter statement charged that the words "in the year of our Lord" had been omitted from the draft of the constitution.

A number of Springfield ministers and others, according to Van Meter, had signed the protest. "Evidently the gentlemen who signed this statement were misled," Mr. Green said. "If they will go to the office of the secretary of state where the official copy of the constitution as adopted by the convention is on file, they will find that the closing words of the text are as follows:

"Done in convention at the capital in the city of Springfield on the twelfth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred twenty-two."

Ignorant or Malicious.
"It is apparent therefore that whoever is responsible for the circulation of the statement that 'the year of our Lord' omitted from the constitution either was grossly ignorant or maliciously intended to create a prejudice. The words are in the constitution and in their proper place, the attention clause."

"Moreover, the preamble begins: 'We, the people of the state of Illinois, grateful to the Almighty God.' This is but one example of many attacks of the same kind that are being made on this constitution. The men who framed it were elected for that purpose by the people. They spent nearly three years of their time stoutly working out these actions, and I do not believe any set of men ever worked more conscientiously for what they believed to be the public good."

"The people who commanded them to do this work at least should be permitted to view the finished product without prejudice. They should not be compelled to sweep away a great rubbish heap of lies and misinformation before getting to the truth."

WOODWARD DENIES IT.
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Oct. 14.—Charles E. Woodward, president of the Illinois Constitutional Convention today declared that the criticism of certain individuals that the words "in the year of our Lord" did not appear in the proposed constitution "is in error." Those words which a number of ministers and church leaders had said did not appear, were in the official certification of the constitution to the Secretary of State and likewise appear in the address to the people by the delegates.

The printed copies of the constitution now being circulated would bear out his statement, President Woodward said.

DO YOU KNOW?

By Dixon Chamber of Commerce

The Dixon Loan & Building Association one of the old and solid financial institutions of Dixon, was founded in 1887, over thirty-five years ago. The association has offices in its own building at 119 Galena Ave.

The Building & Loan has had a steady growth through all these years, until it now has over 400 stockholders and has 147 loans totaling almost a quarter of a million dollars, all secured by first mortgage on Dixon real estate.

The Association has assisted its members in purchasing or building over 700 homes. Shares in the Association are sold on the monthly payment plan, and these payments plus the earnings accomplish the purchase of shares. Dividends for years have been in excess of six per cent, and as the borrower is also a shareholder, the loan rates have been liberal.

The Directors and officers are all Dixon men and over ninety per cent of the shares of stock are held by Dixon people. The association is distinctly a Dixon institution, the objects of which are to encourage and promote profitable saving and home building in Dixon.

CONGRESSMEN RUN LIKE RATS BEFORE LEGION, SAYS DAWES

"Hell and Maria" Was Characteristic in His Remarks.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

New York, Oct. 14.—Charles G. Dawes, former director general of the national budget, famed for his "hell and Maria" utterances when he was cutting down government expenses at Washington, smoked his briar pipe in the gold and red magnificence of the Waldorf Astoria last night and made characteristic remarks when a bankers and business men gathered to do him honor at dinner.

The dinner was given for Mr. Dawes by the New York City Committee of the National Budget Committee, an organization which fought for the adoption of the national budget bill. John C. Pratt, chairman of the National Committee, and Job E. Hedges, receiver of the New York Street Railways, tried to compliment Mr. Dawes on his work, but he told them, between puffs on his pipe to "cut it out." Harry Higgs, financial adviser to the government of Egypt, also spoke, but since he did not go into Mr. Dawes record he escaped interruptions.

Some Run Like Rats
"I've lost the art of moderate expression," said Mr. Dawes and he went on to tell what he thought of some congressmen who "run like rats when anyone shakes the name of the American Legion in their faces, as on the bonus question."

He said the public was not aware of the temper of the cabinet on the budget policy, or how cabinet officers "talked revolt" in respect to it. "Citing an instance of cabinet opposition, he said that when he asked Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt to permit him to transfer a million dollars worth of mine sweepers from the navy to the coast and geodetic survey, Mr. Roosevelt refused."

Withdrawal of Letter
"I called Roosevelt to my office," said Mr. Dawes, "and he came. I asked him if he wanted to go to the mat with me before the President. He withdrew the letter."

Mr. Dawes said that when he asked for some information from the chief of naval operations, the officer replied that he considered it his duty to the people to maintain the navy efficiently.

"I said to him the hell you do!" Mr. Dawes remarked. "I told him to be the President who had that responsibility. I said either he or I would have the office. I got the information, and that little talk saved just $19,000,000."

RADIO LABORATORY OF CLINTON MERGES WITH DIXON CASKET CO. FORMER TO MOVE TO THIS CITY

Radio Cabinets, Etc., to Be Manufactured in Dixon.

Through the efforts of John E. Erwin and H. W. Leydig of this city and M. S. Ackles, vice president of the Perfection Radio Laboratory, incorporated, of Clinton, Ia., the amalgamation of the Dixon Casket Manufacturing Company and the Perfection Radio Laboratory, Incorporated, of Clinton, has been brought about. After plans for the amalgamation were well under way and the intended movement of the plant to Dixon was decided upon, Secretary E. R. Oxnham of the local Chamber of Commerce was called upon for the cooperation of the Chamber.

Not a New Firm
The Perfection Radio Laboratory has been exclusively engaged in the manufacture and sale of radio instruments and parts since 1914 and has now grown to such proportions that it became necessary to have a plant of its own in which to manufacture radio cases, cabinets and tables. The Dixon Casket Company has been one of the prosperous industries of the section over a period of years with a well established business having paid ten per cent dividends on outstanding stock for five years. The Dixon plant has grown until it is composed of an entire block, splendidly located, together with a three story building, with basement, 65x155 feet, thoroughly equipped with a splendid up-to-date line of modern woodworking machinery. The Perfection Radio Laboratory will acquire a large part of the production of the Dixon Casket Company plant in the production of radio cabinets of various sizes, radio tables, etc. They will also manufacture a cabinet on the order of the phonograph cabinet which will contain the most modern and complete radio sets on the market. Under the amalgamation the casket making will be continued and enlarged as it is a very profitable part of the business.

A large selling organization has been formed in Chicago with a capital of $200,000 offered by some very wealthy bankers and business men who have entered into contract with the Perfection Radio Laboratory, Inc. to purchase the entire output of the various plants for a period of ten years. This splendid arrangement provides a guaranteed sale without any selling expense to the local concern. The general offices of the organization will be placed in Dixon. This concern will employ about sixty people within the next thirty days and if expectations are realized will be constantly increasing until it will probably reach 250.

Receiving Station Installed
Splendid metal towers are being erected for the purpose of installing aerials for both receiving and transmitting sets and a transmitting station will also be installed in the local offices of the company; thereby providing means of constant communication between the two plants. The personnel of the Dixon plant will remain the same as before the amalgamation. The officers of the Perfection Radio Laboratory, Incorporated, are as follows:

F. M. Bailey, President.
M. S. Ackles, Vice President.
H. L. Bailey, Secretary.
D. I. Bailey, Treasurer.
Directors: John E. Erwin, H. W. Leydig, M. M. Mismann, Frank A. Fordham and H. H. McKenzie, well known Rexal Drug Store man of Chicago.

The bringing to Dixon of the Perfection Radio Laboratory not only means added prosperity and employment to the community but it means that Dixon has obtained a company whose merchandise is recognized as second to none by the government, which they served during the late war.

Mr. Perkins is not a musician, but you would hardly believe that when you hear him play on the wonderful Gulbransen player-piano.

Harbord made, General Dawes said his own reply was:

"Your's is like the plaintive call of the peewee with its nest in the brush being cut down for some great public improvement."

Mr. Dawes said he received no answer from General Harbord.

Refugee Problem in Greece is Serious

Athens, Oct. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Reliable advices from various parts of Greece, including the islands, indicate the growing seriousness of the refugee problem. Thousands of persons are terribly emaciated from lack of nourishment and suffering from exposure and the insanitary conditions in which they are forced to exist. The refugees, the majority of whom are women, children and old men, are sleeping in parks, attics, and cellars and generally about fifty to a room. The authorities estimate Greece will have a million refugees to support when eastern Thrace is evacuated. It would require 1,500,000,000 drachmas yearly to feed this number, and also an effective organization which the government does not possess. The Thracian deputies have announced they will appeal to Herbert Hoover for assistance.

MILLION DOLLAR CORPORATION LANDED FOR DIXON

Boy Abandoned Here--Kidnapped?

Woman Left Boy in Care of Woman in September.

A black eyed, black haired, exceptionally bright boy of about four years has been abandoned in Dixon, left with complete strangers, with hardly clothes enough to cover the little boy, sick and in strange surroundings. The Sheriff's office is making a search in an effort to locate the heartless mother. Although sick and among strangers, the little lad, who knows no other name than that of "Jack," is receiving the tender care of friends, who have taken him into their home. Whether the child has been abandoned by a heartless young mother, or has been kidnapped, is the question the Sheriff's office is trying to determine.

Mrs. Grace Heinze, 202 Cropsey avenue, chambermaid at the Nachusa Tavern, has been entrusted with the care of the child. Acting on information furnished by The Evening Telegraph, Deputy Sheriff Mac Lichteiler and a representative of The Telegraph called upon Mrs. Heinze this morning and started the investigation. She told a very clear story of a strange woman coming to the hotel shortly after Labor Day with the child. The boy was an interesting little chap and won the admiration of all of the hotel employees with whom he came in contact.

Seek "Mrs. Thompson." Examination of the hotel register disclosed the fact that the woman registered as Mrs. J. R. Thompson of Chicago and claimed to be a saleslady for a wholesale candy company. She carried very little baggage, a traveling bag and a small suit case for the child. She returned to the Tavern about two weeks ago and at that time left the boy here. She confided to Mrs. Grace Heinze, chambermaid at the hotel, that she had been remarried and that her husband had no objection to the child, but had requested that she quit the road and take care of the boy. She explained that she did not care to abide by this request and asked Mrs. Heinze if she would care for the boy.

The woman had stopped at the hotel several times this fall, according to Mrs. Heinze, and had confided some of her domestic affairs. She did not speak in endearing terms of her first husband, but upon her first visits talked considerably of another man with whom she had been going and who had asked her to marry him. Mrs. Heinze about three weeks ago, was stopped by the woman and informed that she had been married.

Promised to Pay. Mrs. Thompson then stated that she had intended to make Dixon her headquarters, stopping here over Sunday each week and was trying to find a place where she could leave her boy. She had been unsuccessful in finding a suitable home for the child, according to her story, and finally prevailed upon Mrs. Heinze to keep the little fellow. She promised to pay for the board and keep of the boy and to provide for his necessities. The child was suffering with a severe cold at the time and was ill.

Mrs. Heinze took the little fellow to her home and nursed him, giving him every care possible. She also provided warm clothes for the child, but heard nothing from the supposed mother. About two weeks ago a long distance telephone message was received. A woman inquired as to the condition of Jack's health and said that she would forward money for his board and also for clothes which he needed badly. Last Sunday evening another long distance telephone message was received by Mrs. Heinze. The woman again inquired as to the child's health and said that she would immediately send money for medical services should be required, but despite these promises no remuneration has been received.

Before leaving the child here two weeks ago, Mrs. Thompson had said that she was going to Peoria and would stop at the Jefferson hotel. Since that time her location has not been known. The boy is sure only the name of Jack and has given the name of Brennard, Thompson and Moore, at different times.

The woman is described as being stout with light hair, fine features, slightly dressed and gave her age as 28 years. She imparted the information that she had formerly resided in Chicago and had a sister living there. She told Mrs. Heinze that the boy's clothing was at the sister's home and

Local Organization is Extended to Lee, Ogle Counties.

President Frank Schoenholz of the Rock River Motor Club stated that word had been received that the emblems would arrive shortly. This delay has been caused by the Rock River Motor Club waiting for the national emblem to be decided upon so that their emblem would carry the national insignia, eliminating any chances of forcing members to purchase new emblems next season.

Strong Club Expected. Through the activities of the Executive Board of the Motor Club arrangements have been made with the State Association to include in the Rock River Motor Club territory, not only Lee county, but Whiteside and Ogle. In the three counties there are 24,200 automobiles. At the present time the membership of the Rock River Motor Club is 248. As soon as the emblems are delivered, Divisional Field Secretary A. P. Hamill will make his headquarters at Dixon, devoting his entire time to the building up of this organization. As soon as the emblems arrive a general membership meeting will be called to distribute them and to lay plans for the coming year.

The two danger signals for Hess's Corners are expected the first of the week, according to the confirmation of the order received by the Secretary. These will be placed in the proper positions by the State Highway Department.

Seek Motive for Blast at Bristow, Oklahoma Hostelry

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Bristow, Okla., Oct. 14.—Officials were trying to establish a motive today for the dynamiting of the Illinois Hotel here last night which caused the death of Nick Redwind, an oil field worker, and the injury of a dozen other persons.

Chairman Says Words "In Year of Our Lord" Are In.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Charging that a deliberate attempt is being made to prejudice the people against the proposed new constitution before they had an opportunity to study it, Henry I. Green of Urbana, chairman of the committee on submission, today replied to a statement given to the press yesterday by Henry Hooker Van Meter, a Bible League organizer. The Van Meter statement charged that the words "in the year of our Lord" had been omitted from the draft of the constitution.

A number of Springfield ministers and others, according to Van Meter, had signed the protest. "Evidently the gentlemen who signed this statement were misled," Mr. Green said. "If they will go to the office of the secretary of state where the official copy of the constitution is adopted by the convention is on file, they will find that the closing words of the text are as follows:

"Done in convention at the capital in the city of Springfield on the twelfth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred twenty-two."

"It is apparent therefore that whoever is responsible for the circulation of the statement that 'the year of our Lord' omitted from the constitution either was grossly ignorant or maliciously intended to create a prejudice. The words are in the constitution and in their proper place, the attention clause."

"Moreover, the preamble begins: 'We, the people of the state of Illinois, grateful to the Almighty God.'"

"This is but one example of many attacks of the same kind that are being made on this constitution. The men who framed it were elected for that purpose by the people. They spent nearly three years of their time studiously working out these actions, and I do not believe any set of men ever worked more conscientiously for what they believed to be the public good."

"The people who commended them to do this work at least should be permitted to view the finished product without prejudice. They should not be compelled to sweep away a great rubbish heap of lies and misinformation before getting to the truth."

WOODWARD DENIES IT.

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Chicago, Oct. 14.—Charles E. Woodward, president of the Illinois Constitutional Convention today declared that the criticism of certain individuals that the criticism of certain individuals that the words "in the year of our Lord" did not appear in the proposed constitution "is in error." Those words, which a number of ministers and church leaders had said did not appear, were in the official certification of the constitution to the Secretary of State and likewise appear in the address to the people by the delegates. The printed copies of the constitution now being circulated would bear out his statement, President Woodward said.

"Hell and Maria" Was Characteristic in His Remarks.

By Associated Press Leased Wire. New York, Oct. 14.—Charles G. Dawes, former director general of the national budget, famed for his "hell and Maria" utterances when he was cutting down government expenses at Washington, smoked his briar pipe in the gold and red magnificence of the Waldorf Astoria last night and made characteristic remarks when a bankers and business men gathered to do him honor at dinner.

The dinner was given for Mr. Dawes by the New York City Committee of the National Budget Committee, an organization which fought for the adoption of the national budget bill. John C. Pratt, chairman of the National Committee, and John E. Hedges, receiver of the New York Street Railways, tried to compliment Mr. Dawes on his work, but he told them, between puffs on his pipe to "cut it out." Harry Higgs, financial adviser to the government of Egypt, also spoke, but since he did not go into Mr. Dawes record he escaped interruptions.

Some Run Like Rats
"I've lost the art of moderate expression," said Mr. Dawes and he went on to tell what he thought of when anyone shakes the name of the American Legion in their faces, as on the bonus question.

He said the public was not aware of the temper of the cabinet on the budget policy, or how cabinet officers "talked revolt" in respect to it.

Citing an instance of cabinet opposition, he said that when he asked Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt to permit him to transfer a million dollars worth of mine sweepers from the navy to the coast and geodetic survey, Mr. Roosevelt refused.

Withdrawal the Letter
"I called Roosevelt to my office," said Mr. Dawes, "and he came. I asked him if he wanted to go to the mat with me before the President. He withdrew the letter."

Mr. Dawes said that when he asked for some information from the chief of naval operations, the officer replied that he considered it his duty to the people to maintain the navy efficiently.

Radio Cabinets, Etc., to Be Manufactured in Dixon.

Through the efforts of John E. Erwin and H. W. Leydig of this city and M. S. Ackles, vice president of the Perfection Radio Laboratory, incorporated, of Clinton, Ia., the amalgamation of the Dixon Casket Manufacturing Company and the Perfection Radio Laboratory, Incorporated, of Clinton, has been brought about. After plans for the amalgamation were well under way and the intended movement of the plant to Dixon was decided upon, Secretary E. R. Oxnam of the local Chamber of Commerce was called upon for the cooperation of the Chamber.

Not a New Firm
The Perfection Radio Laboratory has been exclusively engaged in the manufacture and sale of radio instruments and parts since 1914 and has now grown to such proportions that it became necessary to have a plant of its own in which to manufacture radio cases, cabinets and tables. The Dixon Casket Company has been one of the prosperous industries of the section over a period of years with a well established business having paid ten per cent dividends on outstanding stock for five years. The Dixon plant has grown until it is composed of an entire block, splendidly located, together with a three story building, with basement, 85x155 feet, thoroughly equipped with a splendid up-to-date line of modern woodworking machinery. The Perfection Radio Laboratory will require a large part of the production of the Dixon Casket Company plant in the production of radio cabinets of various sizes, radio tables, etc. They will also manufacture a cabinet on the order of the phonograph cabinet which will contain the most modern and complete radio sets on the market. Under the amalgamation the casket making will be continued and enlarged as it is a very profitable part of the business.

A large selling organization has been formed in Chicago with a capital of $200,000 offered by some very wealthy bankers and business men who have entered into contract with the Perfection Radio Laboratory, Inc. to purchase the entire output of the various plants for a period of ten years. This splendid arrangement provides a guaranteed sale without any selling expense to the local concern. The general offices of the organization will be placed in Dixon. This concern will employ about sixty people within the next thirty days and if expectations are realized will be constantly increasing until it will probably reach 250.

Receiving Station Installed
Splendid metal towers are being erected for the purpose of installing aerials for both receiving and transmitting sets and a transmitting station will also be installed in the local office of the company; thereby providing means of constant communication between the two plants.

The personnel of the Dixon plant will remain the same as before the amalgamation. The officers of the Perfection Radio Laboratory, Incorporated, are as follows:
F. M. Bailey, President.
M. S. Ackles, Vice President.
H. L. Bailey, Secretary.
D. I. Bailey, Treasurer.
Directors: John E. Erwin, H. W. Leydig, M. M. Mismann, Frank A. Fordham and H. H. McKenzie, well known Rexal Drug Store man of Chicago.

The bringing to Dixon of the Perfection Radio Laboratory not only means added prosperity and employment to the community but it means that Dixon has obtained a company whose merchandise is recognized as second to none by the government, which they served during the late war.

Mr. Perkins is not a musician, but you would hardly believe that when you hear him play on the wonderful Gulbransen player-piano.

"You're like the plaintive call of the plover with its nest in the brush being cut down for some great public improvement."

Mr. Dawes said he received no answer from General Harbord.

Weekly Grain Review

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Oct. 14.—Seaboard competition for quick shipments of grain has been of material effect this week in lifting the value of wheat, corn and oats. Compared with a week ago wheat this morning was 1 1/2 to 3 1/2c higher, with corn up 3 1/2 to 3 3/4c, and oats 1 to 3 1/4c. In provisions, the net change varied from 50c decline to an advance of 2 1/2c.

It was after the wheat market was finally freed from the disturbing influence of the controversy with the Turks that the upward tendency of prices began to show decided impetus although the first result of the signing of the armistice was a moderate decline in values. Heavy buying which set in led traders to forget quickly opinions that had been current as to bearish aspects of stoppage of the near east hostilities. Instead, much talk was heard that under the present European conditions the peace outlook should properly be regarded as an aid to an advance in prices.

Bullish estimates of the world's available supply of wheat gave further emphasis to bullish sentiment, and so too did transportation difficulties which prevented any seasonal enlargement of seaboard stocks, and rendered demand from chippers urgent. Good business at flour mills both northwest and southwest was an additional stimulus. Besides, at times, the wheat market proved responsive to great strength that was shown by corn.

New high price records for the season were reached on some deliveries of corn and oats, although the government crop report cutting down estimates of the 1922 yield of corn was less radical than had been generally expected. Smallness of the Argentine exportable surplus attracted considerable notice. Provisions averaged lower with hogs.

IOWA SCORED FIRST IN TODAY'S BATTLE WITH BLUE OF YALE

Parkins Wiggled Over Yale's Line for Touchdown.

SCORE.
End first half: Iowa, 6; Yale, 0.

Yale Bowl, New Haven, Conn., Oct. 14.—The Yale bowl, seating about 75,000 people, was less than half full to-day when Yale and Iowa football teams started the first test of the season between western conference gridiron stars and those of the "Big Three" of the east. An overcast sky had indications that the sun might appear at any moment. A brisk breeze blew diagonally across the gridiron.

Iowa had a cheering section labelled "Iowa fights, beat Yale, howling three hundred," most of the howling was done by the Yale rooters prior to the game. Iowa's rooters, heavily outnumbered, were led by two cheer directors both with gold sweaters and one with black and the other with white pants.

Both Western Conference and Big Three scouts were on hand to get pointers for future clashes. Among them were Bob Zuppke, Illinois coach, and Captain Charley Buell of Harvard.

Iowa Won Toss.
While the Iowa players warmed up by walking around in a circle, a Yale cheer leader led a bull dog up and down the side lines.

Iowa won the toss and Yale kicked off at 2:30 sharp. The Iowa catcher being downed in his tracks on the 25 yard line.

Captain Locke and Shuttleworth in two line plunges, gained eight yards, and on the third play a fumble gave the ball to the Eli's on Iowa's 32 yard line. Wright attempted a forward pass, which was intercepted by Parkin, who was downed in his tracks, and on the first lineup Shuttleworth fumbled and Eddy recovered for Yale on Iowa's 25 yard line. Wright made two yards through Thompson and then lost four yards on a fumble.

Wright from a field goal formation grounded a forward pass. Wright then failed on an attempted field goal from the 42 yard line the ball passing under the goal bar. It was Iowa's ball on their 20 yard line. Parkin made three yards through Diller before Mallory brought down the Iowa quarterback. Locke made 4 yards at center and failed again on repetition of the play. Minick punted to Neddinger on Yale's 30 yard line, where he was dropped in his tracks by Kadesky. On the first slump, Wright punted diagonally across the field to Parkin on Iowa's 30 yard line and the latter ran to midfield before he was brought down.

Mallory Stops Parkins' off tackle rush after a three yard gain and a repetition of the play was good for another three yards. Parkin grounded a forward pass on Yale's 20 yard line there being no Iowa receiver within five yards of the ball when it dropped. Minick tried a drop kick from midfield, the ball striking on Yale's ten yard line and rolling across the goal line. The Eli punt the ball into play on their 20 yard line and a line plunge failed to gain. Wright punted to Parkin on Iowa's 45 yard line. The latter fumbled but recovered the ball. Parkin assaulted Greene's position and gained a yard. Before Mallory checked him Neddinger intercepted Parkin's forward pass on Yale's 20 yard line, but was downed without gaining. Wright made three yards outside of Thompson. Haas was thrown without gain on a delayed tackle plunge and Wright punted to Iowa's 40 yard line where the ball fell dead. Parkin plunged into the line and bounced back without gain.

Parkin on the first line made a short forward pass to Shuttleworth gaining six yards. The play was direct to over the Yale line. Minick then punted the ball 45 yards line across the Yale goal and the Bull Dog again started from its own 20 yard line. Wright punted on the first lineup to Iowa's 48 yard line and a five-yard penalty imposed on Yale gave the westerners the ball on Yale's 45-yard line. Locke made 4 yards in a center plunge and then Parkin in an interference run around Yale's right end made it first down on Eli's 30-yard line before he was forced out of bounds. Parkin slipped through left side for four yards. Locke lost 7 on a fumble. Forward pass, Parkin to Miller, put the ball on Yale's 23-yard line and it was fourth down three yards to go. Parkin made it first down on Yale's 19-yard line with a plunge over Diller. Locke was checked without gain in a crash at center.

Score end first quarter: Iowa, 0; Yale, 0.

Yale Tackle Out.
Left Tackle Green of Yale was knocked out when the Iowa captain made the last dash of the first quarter, but was able to resume play after being sponged off. Following a shift Parkin tried Diller's position without gain. Locke, however, picked up four yards over Landis at the center of the Yale line and the westerners had the ball 20 yards line and 15 yard line. Locke then hit Cross and carried through to Yale's 3 yard line. After careful measurements Iowa was given first down and Parkin again slipped through center for five yards. Following a double shift Parkin went outside Diller for two yards. Quille replaced Green at left tackle for Yale. Cruikshank stopped after a short gain and Iowa was penalized five yards.

Iowa Scores.
Parkin then aided by fine interference swept around Yale's left end and was tackled a yard from Yale's goal line, but managed to wiggle across for the first score of the game. Score Iowa, 6; Yale, 0.

Shuttleworth failed to kick goal the ball striking the underside of the goal high and being deflected to the ground.

Iowa kicked off to Haas on Yale's 5-yard line and the latter ran it back to his 26-yard line before he was stopped. Wright on a cross field run gained a yard. Haas failed in a line plunge at Minick and Wright punted to Parkin on Iowa's 25-yard line and Eddy stopped the rush for Yale after a seven-yard gain. Locke made two yards through center and Parkin in a pretty broad field run around Yale's left and brought the ball to midfield. Locke just crossed the midfield at Yale's left guard. A forward pass Parkin to Kadesky followed by a twisting run carried the ball to Yale's 20-yard line before Kadesky was forced out of bounds. The Iowa left end was almost free twice, but a grasping tackle by Haas finally carried him over the side lines. The Yale fight half was knocked out Cochran who played on the Yale second team until Tuesday of this week, replaced Haas who was taken off the field. Parkin on the first lineup made four yards around left end and was stopped by Mallory who came from the secondary defense.

BOBBED HAIR IS CAUSE OF GIRLS LEAVING HOME
Were Afraid of Parental Admonition After Having It Cut.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Oct. 14.—As three days among the cows and chickens were sufficient for Margaret Davis, 14-year-old town boy runaway, so was the four day experience as working girls enough for Ivy Reeves and Frances Reilly, sixteen-year-old runaways from St. Mary's Catholic High School.

The three girls disappeared last Monday. Margaret, who masqueraded in overalls as "Dick" Davis on a farm, 23 miles northwest of the city, was home about 24 hours ahead of the other runaways.

The lure of the wanderlust was the impelling power behind all three adventures, but the fear of parental admonition because they had bobbed their hair lent courage to the career seeking aspirations of Ivy and Frances.

Back home today the two prodigals said they had only a latent desire to run away until they saw the Auburn locks of Ivy mingled with Frances' black tresses on the barber shop floor.

"Afraid to Go Home
"We were afraid to go home because we had our hair bobbed," was their explanation for seeking jobs as typists at a printing concern. Mrs. Harry Stahl, at whose homes they engaged rooms, ended their "careers" with a telephone call to the police when she read of the search in the newspapers.

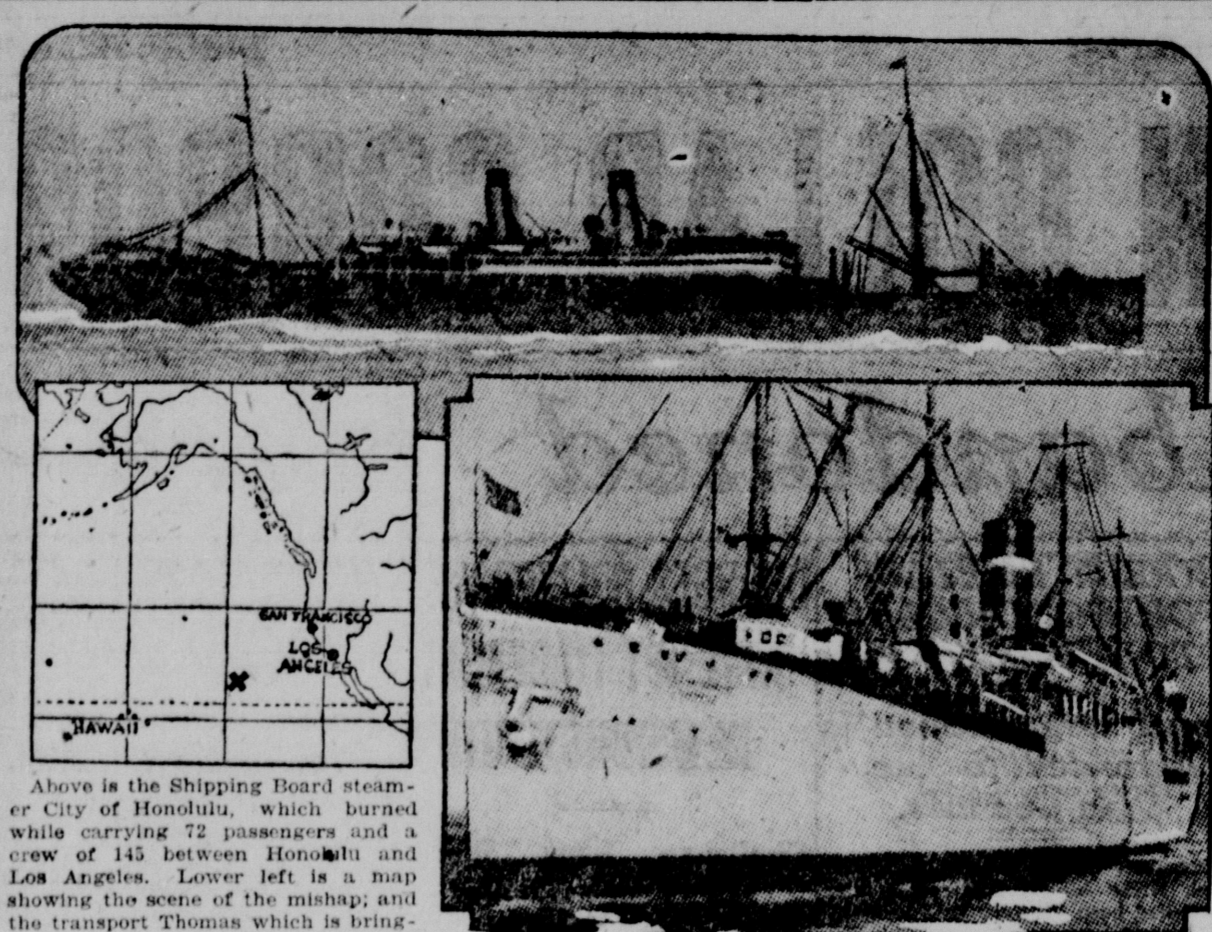

Meanwhile Margaret would be tickled to death with a "bob." Her hair was shorn close to the head which had dreamed adventure. It helped her disguise until she tried to handle a pitchfork and milk a cow.

As three homes rejoiced at the return of prodigal daughters, the police announced that thirty girls who disappeared during the last month are still missing. One of them, Gertrude Parks, left a hospital last Monday to return to her home at Napanee, Indiana.

PICK MAROONS AND GOPHERS TO WIN DAY'S GAMES
Hard, Close Battle is Looked for in Yale vs. Iowa Game.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Oct. 14—Most of the dopesters of the Big Ten football picked Chicago and Minnesota to win their respective games with Northwestern and Indiana today.

These two contests, one at Stagg Field, the other at Indianapolis, were the only games directly affecting the championship race of the Western Conference, the other six teams of the Big Ten playing outsiders.

Four of the six were regarded by the prophets as almost certain winners over their non-conference opponents. They were Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Ohio State.

In the football classic of the day—the Iowa-Yale game at New Haven—most of the experts expected a close, hard fought battle. Opinions on the Purdue-Norte Dame game at Lafayette were divided, with Rockne's eleven apparently holding the edge in the majority of forecasts.

Games today in which teams of the Big Ten are participants, follow:
Iowa at Yale
Northwestern at Chicago
South Dakota at Wisconsin
Michigan at Vanderbilt.
Butler at Illinois.
Notre Dame at Purdue.
Oberlin at Ohio State.
Minnesota vs. Indiana at Indianapolis.

CHURCH NOTES.
A LIVE SINGING CLASS
Much interest has been awakened at the parsonage of the Church of the Brethren. Two weeks ago a singing class was held. Since that time a regular meeting has been voted for. So every Friday night at 7:30 (unless otherwise announced) the people of community will meet at the parsonage for song interpretation and practice.

Last night over forty were present. And the way they sang was certainly inspiring. The interpretation work by Mrs. Sell was soul thrilling.

Sunday evening, Oct. 15, Miss Hazel Culvert, graduate from La Verne College, academy, Calif., and now a teacher at Ashton public school, will read for us the history of that good old song, "My Mother's Prayers Have Followed Me." Every one welcomed.

Fine Progress on Amboy High School
Amboy.—Work on the new Township High school is progressing rapidly—owing to the fact that there was no school this week the carpenters and decorators were able nearly to complete their work in the assembly room. It will not be necessary to move the desks and other equipment from the Assembly Hall to the gymnasium as was first deemed necessary to permit the completion of the Assembly Hall.

The contractors expected to have the gymnasium completed by the end of the week. The wood work and seats have been completed and all that remained to be done was the finishing of the floor. The laboratories are almost finished and most of the equipment is ready to be installed.

Both pupils and teachers have been working under difficulties due to the construction work going on around them and will be glad when they can have the building to themselves.

A neglected grave spell's forgotten, and marble shafts speak of remembrance and love. We furnish a monument that is in keeping with your circumstances. Inspect our samples. C. M. Sworn, Monuments, 413 De-ment Ave., Phone 334. 10 12 14

SWARMS OF PEOPLE

You see houses spring up on vacant lots in the city—and you comment:
"Property is building up solid. I wonder how far this congestion will go. Pretty soon, we'll be packed in like sardines."

The popular notion about civilized congestion is exaggerated.

We are getting the houses closer together, but living quarters are not as congested now as they were 72 years ago.

Striking an average, the Census Bureau finds five persons to each dwelling. In 1850 the average home had six occupants.

It is probable, too, that the average home is larger now than in 1850.
They had many big mansions in those days—but a great many more small homes, including log cabins in which kitchen, dining and living rooms were combined in one.

We moderns take a large floor space, partition it off into a greater number of rooms. We observe the smallness of each room and get the notion that we are headed toward an existence in piano boxes.

You see a man build his home on a small piece of property in the congested district, in preference to a larger property farther out where the cost might be lower, certainly would not be higher.

If you are in a philosophical frame of mind, you see that human beings have a swarming instinct—like bees, ants, schools of fish and herds of caribou.

Fear is back of this swarming instinct.

Men first banded together in a community for mutual protection against wild beasts.

Later it was for protection against other communities of men. It was discovered that it was easier to build a wall or stockade around a village of 1000 people than to build individual walls or stockades around each of 1000 separate dwellings.

The swarming instinct, a form of fear, started civilization. Banded together, men discovered that each had a natural knack for some one task.
Specialization followed, then barter—the primitive form of business.

Misery loves company. So does joy.
The swarming instinct crops out inevitably in everything worth while,
also everything futile.

Let half a dozen pedestrians pause to inspect an unusual auto parked at a curb, and the crowd grows like flies around sugar. The chief reason for such swarming is the monkey instinct of imitation.

We talk a lot about being individual, but ready at all times on nearly every tongue-tip is, "Come on, join the crowd."

There is no great lesson to be learned from studying the human swarming instinct. It is just one of the peculiar natural laws that cannot be altered by philosophy—part of the "destiny that shapes our ends, roughhew them how we may."

MOONSHINE

Nine year old Serrino Cabral's mother gave him a small dose of moonshine liquor as medicine. He liked the taste, found the bottle and drank a half pint. Two doctors and four nurses tried to save him, but he died.

A grown-up has more resistance.
But moonshine, taken steadily, gets him eventually, though it kills by ches instead of at one blow.

GAMBLING

In September 21,775,028 shares of stock exchanged hands on the New York Stock Exchange. This was exceeded in September of only three previous years: 1919, 1916 and 1913.

The stock exchange is nearly twice as active as a year ago.

Nine-tenths of the boys who are playing the present bull market will see out, because they will not be wise enough to quit before the tide turns. A stock gambler is rarely satisfied with his winnings. He reaches farther and farther for more fruit, until he falls over the cliff.

NIX

Bankers, 10,000 of them, at their convention in New York heard pleas for cancellation of debts owed to us by Europe. Many were swept off their feet by the oratory. They join the "forgive" brigade.

Those debts represent money raised by selling Liberty Bonds. When the bonds come due, they must be redeemed—either by the European borrowers or American taxpayers.

Very easy, to give away other people's money. There was no talk at the bankers' convention about banks furnishing the funds to cancel Europe's indebtedness to us, or of forgiving the private debts owed to some banks by Europe.

LAWS

President Harding, says the New York Journal of Commerce, plans so that "the nation will be given a year's freedom from congressional legislation."

A vacation in law making would be a good thing. Fewer new laws, more attention to enforcement of old ones, should be on the program. Americans have a national mania for making rules and regulations. Most problems will solve themselves if left alone. Usually, by the time a law is put through, it's no longer needed.

UNUSUAL

Louie Flores, that Coney Island child born with 12 teeth, attracts attention merely because he's an exception. Just as much attention would go to a child born with no teeth, if 12 teeth at birth were the rule.

Human existence is rather monotonous, decidedly mechanical. And oh how the people delight in an exception, like Louis Flores, that bursts the chains that bind us.

Mankind is in eternal revolt against its chains. That's why a cure-all easily gets an audience, no matter how ridiculous.

WORK

Joe Block, 22, son of the president of the Inland Steel Co., goes to work in a puddler's gang in pa's steel mill.
He is learning the business from the ground floor up.

Lads like Joe will be running the country 20 years from now, when their hair is greying. The boys who "have it handed to them on a platter" are apt to wind up in the scandal news. The man who hasn't learned to work with his hands goes through life without a balance wheel.

TRAVEL

So far this year, about 230,000 people have left the country from Atlantic seaports. It's a fourth less than a year ago.

Arrivals at the same ports, from abroad, total around 270,000, or 200, 000 fewer than a year ago.

Several thousand reasons for this,
including immigration restrictions and empty pocketbooks.

Our imports and exports of humanity this year just about balance.

ARMOR

Will the steel industry suffer when battleship building is curtailed? Not much.

Bethlehem Steel Company is the leading American producer of steel war materials, but its investment in munition plants is less than 5 per cent of its total property investment.

In normal times, less than 1 per cent of total American steel production goes for armaments. That is not much to lose. It would be more than made up by increased peacetime demand for steel in a world redefined more productive by a lessening of its war-preparedness burden.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

They that know thy name will put their trust in thee; for thou, Lord, hast not forsaken them that seek thee.—
Psalm 9:10.

Be strong!
We are not here to play, to dream, to drift.
We have hard work to do and loads to lift.
Shun not the struggle, face it. 'Tis God's gift.

Be strong!
It matters not how deep entrenched
the wrong.
How hard the battle goes, the day
how long.
Faint not tonight, Tom, for comes the day.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

(No. 78)

BY ELTON

After licking Stony, Jack turned his attention to Bill. "Come on, Bill," said he, "you're next." But Bill had started away. He didn't care to mix fists with a boy who could lick Stony.

Then Jack helped Stony up off the ground. "This ought to teach you a good lesson," said Jack. "Don't try to bully everyone you meet." Then he bid Stony a cheery goodbye.

Jack looked around for his horse and found he had wandered into a farm yard. He went right in after him and found Flip, his faithful dog, also. The three started away again.

Jack was feeling fine after his fight and he is his horse gallop. Suddenly Lightning shied at a huge sign. Jack hopped down and read it. His way was blocked. Continued.

BUSYNESS

By Berton Braley

You say you are "Awfully busy."
You look it, there isn't a doubt.
You move at a place that is dizzy.
But what are you busy about?
Just pause in your striving and straining
And cease, for a bit, to gyrate;
And spend a few moments explaining
What you have accomplished, to date!

How much of your vim energetic
Is wisely and sanely applied?
How much is mere hustle frenetic?
I leave it for you to decide.
How much of this split-second hurry
Is getting you honor or pelf?
How much of it's busle and flurry
With which you are kidding yourself?

It's seldom indeed that hard work kills.
But many men get below par
While running round swiftly in circles, Exclaiming how busy they are!
How much of your strength is expended
In mere wasteful effort, old scout?
You say you are busy—that's splendid,
But what are you busy about?

DR. OLIVER EVERETT

Some Incidents Connected with the Life of Well Known Physician, the Early History of Lee County and Especially Dixon.

BY DOROTHY N. LAW

His brother, Alexander Everett, was no doubt his equal intellectually, but death claimed him at an early age.

After all this prelude, you perhaps are thinking the man you most wanted to read about, has been lost sight of in the study of other members of his illustrious family.

Certainly, the man who was in our midst—who was one of us—can be better judged by knowing of his kindred of the past. How different his life might have been had he remained in the east, but he chose the then, new west; his innate superiority of intellect could not be circumscribed by the lack of opportunity of a new country. He made the opportunity, he must find a vent, and he turned to nature, and the Lee County Historical Society is today the beneficiary of his efforts in the untrodden field of research in the state of his choice.

James Everett, sixth removed from Richard first, was born Oct. 16, 1771, married Phebe Clark, and they were the parents of fifteen children, of which Oliver was the sixth. It is said James, the father of Oliver, was of the Benjamin Franklin type—read much, reflected more, a practical philosopher, a wise counselor and a leading man in the community. His son Oliver, the subject of this sketch, was born Sept. 12, 1811, at Worthington, Mass. When he was eight years of age, his father moved to Cummington, Mass., where Oliver attended school for some years, then working on the farm in the summer and teaching school in the winter, later entering Berkshire Medical School, connected with Williams College, Mass., graduating in June, 1833.

An old preceptor, Dr. Dougherty, of Marlborough, N. Y., offered him a partnership with him, but an older brother, James Smith Everett, (Uncle Smith as he was called by the family), and a sister Julia, had already moved west to Princeton, Ill., and entered government land. Julia had married Cyrus Bryant, a son of Dr. Peter Bryant, and a brother of William Cullen Bryant.

Mary Everett, a daughter of James Smith Everett, is living in Princeton (1920) and has in her possession an heirloom prepared by Dr. Everett which at her death will revert to the Lee County Historical Society at Dixon. Other Bryants also came to Princeton: John Bryant, a brother of William Cullen, lived for many years at Princeton, and died there. He wrote many beautiful poems and essays, and no doubt would have been noted as an author, had he not been overshadowed by his illustrious brother, William Cullen Bryant.

The young Dr. Oliver decided to follow his brother and sister to the far west. He bought a limited stock of medicine and came by stage or wagon to Albany, N. Y., thence to Buffalo by the Erie Canal, from there by steamboat to Chicago. Arriving there he found no way of reaching Princeton, but by walking. Leaving his heavy luggage, he slung his carpet bag on a stout stick over his shoulder and started on his long, lonely tramp of one hundred and five miles. After spending a short time with his relatives he purchased a horse and started on horseback to decide upon a location in which to practice his profession. On the third day of September, 1836, he reached Dixon's Ferry, and here he decided to remain. It then consisted of four log houses, a blacksmith shop, one frame house and two others in course of erection; a year before a doctor had spent a part of his time here but had left the country. So the Perry and the boundless prairie for miles and miles around was the field of action for Dr. Everett alone. He established an office in the Father Dixon home. Those who are familiar with the painting of this house, probably will have noticed, what seems to be a room connecting the old Ogee cabin with the newer part built by Mr. Dixon. This Dr. Everett pointed out to the writer as his "office." The following is a description of the place as he found it, in a letter written by himself a few years later.

"This slope where the heart of the town now is, was covered by large trees, while the ground beneath perfectly clear of underbrush, presented a smooth, green surface, which, with the ever beautiful river at its base and the opposite bank rising gradually in the distance—also covered with trees and present a clean, park like appearance, with the bluffs crowned with lofty trees and the island dotting the river, appearing like compact rounded masses of green foliage, veiled only by the silver lustre of the maple leaves, presented a scene of beauty and loveliness which has passed away forever from this place. The woodman with his ax, the carry man with his pick and crowbar are sad despoilers of Nature's beauty."

In those days the country was sparsely settled. Many times the doctor was called to patients, ten, twenty, and sometimes many more miles distant, and was obliged to act in various capacities, even to the drawing up of a will. In those days wolves were present in great numbers; if sometimes happened on long rides he would be followed by a pack of these hungry creatures. At that time he had no knowledge of the use of firearms, but another alternative occurred to him for disposing of his troublesome bodyguard. Before starting to make a call a long distance away he would mix a quantity of strychnine into little balls of bread or meat and carry them with him in his saddlebag. When the wolves began to follow him he would throw the balls out one by one and have the satisfaction of seeing some of his foes stretched lifeless before he had passed out of sight on the prairie.

In 1837 Dr. Everett began the erection of a house on what is now the corner of Ottawa Avenue and Second Street, which was his home as long as he lived. In 1870 he placed an addition, but after his death the property was sold to the Order of Elks. In August of the same year, 1837, he was married to his second cousin, Emily Everett, at Princeton, Ill. She was a daughter of another Oliver Everett—by the way, Oliver seems to have been a favorite name, for fifteen of that name appear in the history of the Everett family. They were married in a beautiful grove under the spreading branches of the old oaks, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Cyrus Bryant. They drove across country to their home at Dixon's Ferry.

From the time the doctor had a home of his own he also had a garden, in which he delighted, in his leisure hours, to cultivate flowers and vegetables. This garden is remembered by the writer as late as 1880. His daughter, from whose writings we quote largely, says: "The Doctor being called away from home for a few days, wrote his wife a brief letter bidding her be careful to keep the gates closed so the cows could not get into the garden."

In 1842, after five years of married life, Mrs. Everett died quite suddenly having been ill only a few days. She was the mother of two children, Emily and Rufus. The latter died in infancy; Emily lived to young womanhood, but was always delicate and died at the age of 24 years.

There was much sickness in the country during those early years of settlement, as is usually the case in a new country. Typhoid fever and ague prevailed.

The Law family came to Dixon's Ferry from New York City in 1838. Three years later death had claimed two of this family—the father and the elder son, William. During these years of affliction, sickness came with Dr. Everett was their friend and counselor. On the fifth day of February, 1846, he was married to Bessie Law by the Rev. Luke Hitchcock (who came to this part of the west in 1837). To them were born three children, William, James Marcus and Grace. The two sons followed the profession of the father. The elder son died soon after his graduation. "Dr. Mark," as he was called, was born April 13, 1853. For a few years after graduation he practiced medicine in Dixon. In 1884 he removed to DeKalb, Ill., where he remained until his death, which occurred June 29, 1922. He specialized in the study and treatment of tuberculosis, in which he became very proficient. In accordance with his request his remains were cremated. The daughter Grace married W. N. Johnson and died in Rome, Italy.

Quiet Funeral for Looney Yesterday

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 13.—(By the Associated Press).—There was a quiet church funeral today for John Looney, Jr., slain in an underworld gun battle last Friday. A squad of police was assigned to St. Joseph's church to prevent a possible clash between the rival underworld factions. The only unusual incident was the fainting of young Looney's sister in the midst of the service. The church was filled with a curious crowd.

The grand jury was expected to return indictments today against the four men arrested in connection with the killing of Looney. Police raids on bootleggers continue, but the city is quiet.

The mammoth trailer drawn by a 5-ton Acme Truck

On the way to Cadillac

Another triumph for the sturdy Acme—the truck of proved units! The town of Jennings, Michigan, moved to Cadillac! Over a hundred houses, each weighing 25 to 35 tons, are being hauled over twelve miles of country road by a standard 5-ton Acme Truck and a giant-size trailer, conceived, designed and built by the Acme Motor Truck Company.

The trailer is 24 feet wide and 42 feet long. House foundations are cut away, the trailer is backed underneath the house, and jacks let down permitting the house to rest on the trailer.

Successfully to accomplish this mighty task of moving an entire town is a tribute to Acme engineering skill—additional proof of Acme ability to do the hardest tasks of trucking easily, economically and well.

Remarkable has been the Acme's record of super-service. In Acme proved units and proved construction are joined the specialized efforts of many organizations—each a leader in its field.

The FLAMING JEWEL

by ROBERT W. CHAMBERS
© 1922 GEORGE H. DORAN COMPANY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

For the second time, Love made his appearance in the whirlpool of passions that surrounded the flaming jewel, that priceless gem, stolen first from the COUNTRESS OF ESTHONIA by the great international thief.

It was love of the now beggared countess that made

JAMES DARRAGH swear to restore the jewel to her. He traced it to the "Cliché" disreputable hotel in the Adirondacks, where he worked under the name of Hal Smith.

Now love was appearing in the life of beautiful

EVE STRAYER, Cliché's step-daughter and the one influence for good in Cliché's crime-stained career. Eve, captured by Quintana and threatened with torture to make her reveal the flaming jewel, escaped from his savage clutch and was brought to camp by

STATE TROOPER STORMONT. Stormont stood guard while Cliché and his gang were in the night to wine out Quintana's gang and with them

KLOON, the run-rancer, and LEVERETT, the trap-thief, who had escaped with the jewel packet when it slipped from Eve as she was being carried into the camp after her escape.

Go on With the Story CHAPTER IV

IN the hot, uncomfortable silence, neither spoke. Trooper Stormont seated himself after a while. And, after a while, Eve turned on her pillow part way toward him.

Somehow they both understood that it was friendship which had subtly filled the interval that separated them since that amazing day.

"I've often thought of you," he said—as though they had been discussing his absence.

No hour of the waking day that she had not thought of him. But she did not say so now. After a little while:

"Is yours a lonely life?" she asked in a low voice.

"Sometimes. But I love the forest."

"Sometimes," she said, "the forest seems like a trap that I can't escape. Sometimes I hate it."

"Are you lonely, Eve?"

"As you are. You see I know what the outside world is. I miss it."

"You were in boarding school and college."

"Yes."

"It must be hard for you here at Star Pond."

The girl sighed, unconsciously:

"There are days when I can scarcely stand it. . . . The wilderness would be more endurable if I had and I were all alone. . . . But even then—"

"You need young people of your own age—educated companions—"

"I need the city, Mr. Stormont. I need all it can give; I'm starving for it. That's all."

She turned on her pillow, and he saw that she was smiling faintly. Her face bore no trace of the tragic truth she had uttered. But the tragedy was plain enough to him, even without her passionless words of revolt. The situation of this young, educated girl, aglow with youth, fettered, body and mind, to the squalor of Cliché's dump, was perfectly plain to anybody.

She said, smiling his troubled expression: "I'm sorry I spoke that way."

"I knew how you must feel, any way."

"It seems ungrateful," she murmured. "I love my stepfather."

"You've proven that," he remarked with a dry humor that brought the hot flush to her face again.

"I must have been crazy that day," she said. "It scares me to remember what I tried to do."

What a frightful thing—if I had killed you—How can you forgive me?"

"How can you forgive me, Eve?" She turned her head: "I do."

"Entirely?"

"Yes."

He said a slight emotion noticeable in his voice: "Well, I forgive you before the damned gun exploded in our hands."

"How could you?" she protested. "I was thinking all the while that you were acting as I'd have acted if anything threatened my father."

"Were you thinking of that?"

"IT SCARES ME TO REMEMBER WHAT I TRIED TO DO."

"Yes—and also how to get hold of you before you shot me." He began to laugh.

After a moment she turned her head to look at him, and her smile glimmered, responsive to his amusement. But she shivered slightly, too.

"How about that egg?" he inquired.

"I can get up."

"Better keep off your feet. What is there in the pantry? You must be starved."

"I could eat a little before supper time," she admitted. "I forgot to take my lunch with me this morning. It is still there in the pantry, on the bread box, wrapped up in brown paper, just as I left it—"

She half rose in bed, supported on one arm, her curly brown-gold hair framing her face:

"Two cakes of sugar-milk chocolate in a flat brown packet tied with a string," she explained, smiling at his amusement.

So he went down to the pantry and discovered the parcel on the bread box where she had left it that morning before starting for the cache on Owl Marsh.

He brought it to her, placed both pillows upright behind her, stepped back gaily to admire the effect. Eve, with her parcel in her hands, laughed shyly at his comedy.

"Begin on your chocolate," he said. "I'm going back to fix you some bread and butter and a cup of tea."

The girl, still smiling, began to untie her packet, hurriedly, slowly loosening string and wrapping.

Her attention was not fixed on way back, but darkness was fast descending, and a landing was necessary.

Peebles headed for the landing field and holding the death ship about twenty-five or thirty feet from the ground, he again begged the girl to let loose and fall, but still she held on.

The plane dipped to the ground, its speed slackened to the minimum. The girl's form at the end of the rope ladder crashed with a terrific impact and as she was dragged for nearly 100 feet she was disfigured almost past recognition.

The doctors leaped to her side. They did their utmost to fan the spark of life back into a flame, but it only thickened and died.

Peebles, broken-hearted, declares he will never fly again.

Miss Moss had been training for thirty days and was to have started her professional career today. Last Friday she made a parachute leap of 2000 feet and sustained a sprained ankle. She formerly was a stenographer in Chattanooga, where her body was sent for burial.

what her slender fingers were about. She drew from the parcel a flat morocco case with a coat of arms and crest stamped on it in gold, black, and scarlet.

For a few moments she stared at the object stupidly. The next moment she heard Stormont's spurred tread on the stairs, and she thrust the morocco case and the wrapping under the pillows behind her.

She looked up at him in a dazed way when he came in with the tea and bread. He set the tin tray on her bureau and came over to the bedside.

"Eve," he said, "you look very white and ill. Have you been hurt somewhere, and haven't you admitted it?"

She seemed unable to speak, and he took both her hands and looked anxiously into the lovely, pallid features.

After a moment she turned her head and buried her face in the pillow, trembling now in overwhelming realization of what she had endured for the sake of two cakes of sugar-milk chocolate hidden under a bush in the forest.

For a long while the girl lay there, the feverish flush of tears on her partly hidden face, her nervous hands tremulous, restless, now seeking his convulsively, now striving to escape his clasp—eloquent, uncertain little hands that seemed to tell so much and yet were telling him nothing he could understand.

"Eve, dear," he said, "are you in pain? What is it that has happened to you? I thought you were all right. You seemed all right—"

"I am," she said in a smothered voice. "You'll stay here with me, won't you?"

"Of course I will. It's just the reaction. It's all over. You're relaxing. That's all dear. You're safe. Nothing can harm you now—"

"Please don't leave me."

After a moment: "I won't leave you. . . . I wish I might never leave you."

In the tense silence that followed her trembling ceased. Then his heart, heavy, irregular, began beating so that the startled pulses in her body awoke, wildly responsive.

Deep emotions, new, unfamiliar, were stirring, awaking, confusing them both. In a sudden instinct to escape, she turned and partly rose on one elbow, gazing blindly about her out of tear-murdered eyes.

"I want my room to myself," she murmured in a breathless sort of way. "I want you to go out, please—"

A boyish flush burnt his face. He got up slowly, took his rifle from the corner, went out, closing the door, and seated himself on the stairs.

And there, on guard, sat Trooper Stormont, rigid, unstriving, hour after hour, leading the first great passion of his life, and stunned by the impact of its swift and unexpected blow.

In her chamber, on the bed's edge, sat Eve Strayer, her deep eyes fixed on space. Vague emotions, exquisite recurrent, new born, possessed her. The whole world, too, all around her seemed to have become misty and golden and all pulsating with a faint, still rhythm that indefinably thrilled her pulses to response.

Passion, full-blown, springs flaming from the heart of man. Woman is slow to burn. And it was the delicate phantom of passion that Eve gazed upon, there in her unguilted chamber, her sun-tanned fingers linked listlessly in her lap, her little feet like bruised white flowers drooping above the floor.

Hour after hour she sat there dreaming, staring at the tinted ghost of Eros, rose-hued, near-smiling, unrepentant, as the dusty sunbeams that streamed from her window, gilding the boarded floor.

Three spectres, gliding near, paused to gaze at State Trooper Stormont, on guard by the stairs. Then they looked at the closed door of Eve's chamber.

Then the three spectres, Fate, Chance and Destiny, whispering together, passed on toward the depths of the sunset forest.

Army and Navy Air Men in Competition

Mr. Clemens, Mich., Oct. 13.—The second day of the national air races at Selfridge Field gave spectators their first opportunity to witness the flight of the new speed creations of the army and navy, eleven of which were entered in the Liberty engine builders' trophy race. Two light navy machines were pitted against nine heavy planes carrying the honor of the navy.

This was the only race on today's program, but thrills aplenty were in prospect in other events. Friday the thirteenth, the lane of the superlatives, apparently had no fears for the 165 pilots here. Dread of that date has passed for the service men, according to Major Carl Spatz, commanding officer at Selfridge Field, who recalled instances at air stations in France during the war and then pointed to the feverish bustle about the hangars, where pilots and mechanics were preparing machines for daring rushes through the air.

FIGHTER GETS WORD OF DEATH OF FATHER AS HE LOSES BATTLE

Few Around Ring Knew of Sorrow That Came to Tommy Gibbons.

New York, Oct. 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Stories are told about actors sometimes going out on the stage after they have received news of the death of a husband or wife, reciting their regular lines and making indifferent folk feel happy and laugh. Probably those stories are true. Anyone of the crowd that filled Madison Square Garden last night and saw Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul lose on a foul to Billy Miske, his fellow townsman, in the tenth round of their bout that was to go fifteen rounds probably will believe so today. Only a few of that howling crowd saw a uniformed messenger by creep up to Gibbons' corner during the seventh round and cautiously getting his signature of receipt first, slip a yellow envelope into the hand of Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager. Gibbons saw it, out of the corner of his eye as he slashed out and slugged, and he knew.

When Tommy came to his corner at the end of the seventh round he sank calmly on his stool and asked Kane, "What does it say?"

"What does what say?" the manager countered, his face flushing.

"Oh, all right," Gibbons answered, "but I know."

Foul Unintentional.

The remainder of the fight details don't matter much. Tommy went on, slugging away, fighting cleverly, craftily, feinting his opponent into leads that led only to punishment, until a twist of fate in the tenth caused Gibbons' right first to fall below Miske's belt and Miske to fall upon the floor and the battle to end.

It was more than the mere disappointment of losing a fight that he had virtually slugged away for keeps that came to Tom Gibbons when he left the ring. Kane shoved the crumpled telegram into the boxer's gloved fist.

"Read it to me," he said. "Let's hurry and read. I'm awfully sorry—"

"All right," Gibbons said, tears streaming down his face. "I know what you mean."

But those who crowded the arena and lined the aisle down which the loser strode didn't know. They had seen fighters lose on fouls before but they had never seen one cry—even when he had lost his fighting reputation. They didn't know about the telegram—hadn't seen the messenger boy creep back into the crowd after delivering the message that told of the death of Tom's father in St. Paul, of a father proud of his fighting sons, who had taught them much of the fighting that they knew.

FIRST SICKNESS IN EIGHTY YEARS FOR ELDENA MAN

Father Heckman is Reported Poorly This Week.

Eldena—Father Heckman is very poorly at this writing, a complication of diseases of rheumatism and poor circulation of the blood. Father Heckman reports that he is nearly eighty years old and this is the very first occasion for him being sick otherwise than from colds and accidents. We trust he will soon recover and be able to be about as has always been his custom.

There will be preaching service at the Emanuel church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, and Sunday evening at the Eldena church at 7:30.

Last Friday a car load of tile arrived and was switched off near the lumber yards in Eldena. Of the entire load by good authority it was reported that only one joint of tile was found to be broken. This is a remarkable fact as the car had been bumped so hard the end was knocked in, and it is also a compliment to those who loaded the tile. This load came from the Paw Paw tile yards and was consigned to Roy Glessner.

Hurrah! boys, Hurrah! Monday the local train stopped and switched in another carload of black diamonds. We sure are fortunate, we will be able to keep warm even though the weather man does his best. They say there is enough for all as long as it lasts and it is perfectly free for the hauling away, however it has always been the custom to go to the office and settle first and we suppose this custom is still in vogue.

Mrs. Edith Botha, who is teaching the Eldena school, called on her mother, Mrs. L. W. Martin, one afternoon last week.

Sherman Rudesill of Eldena is seen passing to and from the village every night and morning. This he has been doing all summer. Mr. Rudesill is working for a farmer about one mile west of town and that farmer is to be congratulated in finding a man who will stick to his job.

We saw the new Ford truck of the firm of Phillips & Rhinehart pass through our streets Tuesday afternoon, and later returning with a very large hog in a crate. We suspect there either has or in the near future will be a hog killing in Eldena.
